The hosts say this is their last sale before Christmas, that they are very motivated to move every item, and that a free dinner raffle runs during the sale. Update for the last two days (follow-up post, Nov 13, 2026): the hosts said the first day went well and a lot of inventory remained for Saturday and Sunday. Items were to be discounted through Saturday, with offers welcomed. Two of the four sewing machines remained. Also named again in the update: antique tools, a large amount of collectibles including diecast cars and old models, Grateful Dead and Harley-Davidson items, vintage and sterling jewelry, vintage clothing, and record albums, cassettes, eight-tracks and CDs. The update says 90% of everything is indoors and early birds will not be turned away.

Organizer: Kim Drollinger Walter (full-ad post). This is the full ad promised in the earlier teaser post by Paul Walter (Nov 7, 2026, 'biggest sale of the year'), which gave only Fri Nov 13 and Sat Nov 14 with no address or hours; the full ad adds Sunday Nov 15, the street address, and 8 AM – 2 PM hours, so this entry replaces the teaser entry. Hours note: the ad line reads 'Friday 11/13, Saturday 11/14 AND Sunday 8am-2pm'; it does not list separate hours per day, so hours are carried as 8 AM – 2 PM for the sale. Date note: November 13, 2026 is a Friday, November 14 a Saturday, and November 15 a Sunday, so days and dates match. The $12,348 figure in the post header is the group's sale-post price field, not a sale price.
