Storms Over the Rim, Painters in the Red Rocks

Payson, Ariz.

Well met, wayfarer, and good Turdas morning — the storm is drumming on the lodge roof, the pines are dripping, and a flood watch rides over Rim Country until late tonight, so mind the washes and travel with care. Payson still plays this afternoon with disc golf at Rumsey Park, Sedona's plein air painters catch the light between showers, Camp Verde opens a campers' weekend and a farmers market, and Prescott Valley hosts a big night of comedy. Later come awards night in Sedona, Kids Club in Payson, and a Saturday stacked with the Monster Mash and an air fest — fill your mug, watch the sky, and plan hearty.

Painters at their easels in the red rocks and a disc sailing over Rumsey Park — all under a stormy Rim sky.

Happening in the Holds Today

- Payson

  — Rumsey Park Battle — Disc Golf League, 4:15 to 6:30 p.m. at the Rumsey Park Disc Golf Course in Payson. This evening league round is listed on UDisc as a singles round in the general division, run by league director David, and it throws the park's course in the cool of the late afternoon under the pines. It is a good, low-key way for guests to get outdoors and meet local players, with a friendly league feel rather than a big tournament show. Bring discs if you have them, check the UDisc listing for check-in details, and watch the stormy sky before you set out.

- Camp Verde

  — Camp Carpe Diem Verde Valley 2026 — Opening Day, starting 10:00 a.m. today and running October 22–25 at Verde River RV Resort & Cottages, 1472 West Horseshoe Bend Drive, Camp Verde. This hosted RV-and-camping weekend uses Camp Verde as its base for exploring the whole Verde Valley, with hiking, biking, breweries, wineries, and ghost towns by day and campfire gatherings by night. It is a social, ticketed gathering rather than a drop-in town fair, so guests already in the valley with an RV will get the most from it. Expect a ready-made company of fellow travelers and a planned menu of outings.

  — Windmill Park Farmers Market, 2:00 p.m. in Windmill Park, 9950 E. Cornville Rd., Cornville, the wine-country village between Camp Verde and Sedona. Local growers and makers set up in the park for the afternoon, and the market pairs naturally with a Page Springs and Cornville tasting-room run. It is good for guests who want a short, scenic drive and something local to bring back for supper. Check the Facebook listing before going, as no end time was shown, and mind the storms on the road.

- Sedona

  — Sedona Plein Air Festival — Lights On Afterschool Paint-Out, 3:00 to 5:00 p.m. at West Sedona Elementary in Sedona, free. Part of the 22nd Sedona Plein Air Festival, running October 16–24, this paint-out puts festival artists to work outdoors in the afternoon light — plein air means painting outside, on the spot, so visitors watch a red-rock scene become a canvas in real time. It is a relaxed, family-friendly stop where you can wander, watch, and talk with painters between brushstrokes. No ticket was mentioned for this session in the listing checked.

  — Sedona Plein Air Festival — Festival Week, all week through October 24 at the Sedona Arts Center, 15 Art Barn Road, Sedona. Now in its 22nd year, the festival brings about 26 invited artists to paint Sedona's landscape outdoors, and visitors can watch master painters work, attend demonstrations, and see fresh paintings of views they stood in that same morning. It is one of Sedona's signature fall weeks and an easy wander for Hearth guests. The week builds to Awards Night on Friday and a final sale on Saturday — check the Arts Center for the day's demonstration schedule before driving over.

- Show Low

  — Book vs Movie — Northland Pioneer College, today at the NPC Show Low Learning Center Library, 1001 W. Deuce of Clubs, Show Low; the college calendar lists the program as free and open to everyone, with no start time printed, so check the calendar before you go. The format compares a story on the page with its screen version — a bookish, conversational session rather than a lecture. It suits readers and film fans looking for a quiet stop in Show Low on a stormy day. Bring your own favorite example and join the argument, kindly kept.

- Prescott

  — Gabriel Iglesias: The 1976 Tour, 8:00 p.m. at the Findlay Toyota Center in Prescott Valley, just east of Prescott. Stand-up star Gabriel "Fluffy" Iglesias brings his tour to the arena for one night only, with the storytelling, voices, and sound effects he is famous for rather than bite. This is the biggest single ticket in the Prescott area tonight by a wide margin, and arena crowds are expected. Buy through Ticketmaster ahead rather than hoping at the door, and check the ticket page for doors and entry details.

  — Pickleball Challenge Play at Pioneer Park, 8:00 a.m. at the Pioneer Park Pickleball Complex, 1200 Commerce Dr., Prescott; no end time was stated in the listing. This is morning challenge play — structured, competitive games rather than a first-timers' clinic — at one of the local homes of the paddle sport half of Rim Country seems to play now. It is best for guests who already play and travel with a paddle. Arrive early, for Prescott mornings in late October are crisp and the courts fill with regulars — and watch the weather before heading out.

The Days Ahead

- Fri, Oct. 23

  — Payson — Noley's Kids Club, 1:00 to 2:30 p.m. at Noley's, 103 E. State Highway 260, Payson. Michelle Guerrero reads her book The Christmas Witch — a little Christmas in October — and there will be crafts, free books, and a giveaway, thanks to sponsor Time Out, Inc. A sweet, easy afternoon for young guests and their grown-ups, right in the heart of town. Expect a small, friendly bookstore-style gathering, not a big production.

— Sedona — Plein Air Festival Awards Night, 5:00 to 7:00 p.m. at the Sedona Arts Center, 15 Art Barn Road, Sedona, with free admission per the festival guide. After a week of artists painting the red rocks outdoors, the festival gathers for its awards reception, with light refreshments and the week's work fresh off the easel. It is the best night to see the strongest paintings in one room, meet the painters, and hear which canvases the judges chose. Paintings are for sale, so collectors get first pick — arrive at the start, for this is the festival's most social evening.

— Show Low — Paint & Sip: Three Ghosts, 6:00 p.m. at Kittle's Fine Art, 100 N. White Mountain Rd., Suite 101, Show Low. A guided evening painting session with a Halloween theme — three ghosts, painted step by step, in a working art studio. It is made for beginners and merry dabblers alike, and you take your canvas home at the end of the night. Register through the studio's Upcoming Classes page at Kittlesfineart.com, per the listing. A fine, cozy way to spend a fall Friday evening in the White Mountains.

- Sat, Oct. 24

  — Payson — Monster Mash, 4:00 to 9:30 p.m. in Payson. Payson's big family Halloween evening starts earlier this year so families have more room to come and go across the night, with costumes, crowds, and a fall evening in the park. Bring chairs and blankets for the outdoor Halloween movie, The Nightmare Before Christmas, and enjoy the fun as Valley Dwellers trade the lowland heat for Rim Country air. Expect a long, festive evening rather than a quick trick-or-treat stop. Check Adventure Payson for the venue details before you go.

  — Sedona — Fall Arts & Crafts Show, 9:00 a.m. to 3:00 p.m. at the Sedona Heritage Museum, 735 Jordan Road, Sedona. The museum's annual fall fair is timed for early holiday shopping, with handmade jewelry, ceramics, fine art, home décor, cards, woodcarvings, glass, candles, and lotions from local and regional makers. Many of these artisans do only this show or a handful of others, so the goods are genuinely hard to find elsewhere. The museum grounds in Jordan Historical Park make it a pleasant browse, not a mall run.

  — Prescott — Prescott Regional Airport AirFest, starting 11:00 a.m. at Prescott Regional Airport, Prescott, and free per the City page. The airport's second annual AirFest is a family-friendly celebration of aviation, with aircraft and military displays, food trucks, and a Prescott Fire Department Touch-a-Truck so kids can climb on real fire equipment. It is an open-air, wander-at-your-own-pace day rather than a seated airshow. A good all-ages outing and an easy drive for guests already headed to Prescott.

- Mon, Oct. 26

  — Pine-Strawberry — Open Mic Night: Music with a Purpose, 4:00 p.m. at 3270 N. Highway 87, Pine; no end time was stated in the listing. Local players take turns rather than one headline act, and open mics in the twin villages are community living rooms — expect neighbors, a few surprises, and music made for love of it. It is good for guests who want an evening that feels like the town, not a show put on for tourists. Check the Facebook event before going for sign-up and venue details.

Merchant of the Hold

Wingfield Bread Company · Camp Verde

Wingfield Bread Company in Camp Verde — cinnamon rolls and sourdough, fresh from the stone oven.

A family-run artisan bakery and sandwich shop in Wingfield Plaza on Main Street in Camp Verde, baking natural-leaven sourdough and other artisan breads from scratch — as if a kindly spell kept the ovens warm and the flour fresh, for they mill their own flour. Cinnamon rolls, croissants, cookies, quiche of the day, and big breakfast and lunch sandwiches fill the case, and Saturday brings biscuits and gravy. The signature thing to try is the cinnamon roll, kin in spirit to the sweet roll every traveler dreams of, with a loaf of garlic sourdough close behind.

> "I would rate it as one of the best bakeries in the area(including Sedona and Cottonwood)" — TripAdvisor review

564 S. Main St., Camp Verde, AZ 86322. Hours: Tue.–Fri. 8:00 a.m.–3:00 p.m., Sat. 8:00 a.m.–2:00 p.m., closed Sundays and Mondays. Phone: (928) 499-0585. Price range: moderate, roughly $10–$20 per person. Good to know: seating is small and much trade is takeout, and favorites sell out — arrive in the morning for the full case.

Why the Hearth sends you: Because warm bread and a huge sandwich make any Verde Valley day better — take a loaf hiking, take a roll for the road, and thank the bakers with both hands. Great praise is great, and Wingfield has earned every word!

Tales from the Treeline

Earl's Rainy-Day Walk

Earl's Rainy-Day Walk — the finest roof Mabel ever saw walk.

Earl (an elk) takes his daily walk at the same hour every day, storm or shine, and a little thing like a Turdas downpour was not going to move him. So when the rain came hammering down, Earl stepped out with his chin high and his antlers proud, exactly as planned.

Jethro (the Mogollon Monster) could not stand the sight. He tore a pine bough the size of a barn door off the windfall pile and trotted along beside Earl, holding it over them both like a walking roof. Henny (the Hearth's chicken), who had no intention of getting wet either, fluttered up and rode dry between Earl's antlers, looking very pleased with her arrangements.

Flurry (a young ice-breathing dragon) tried to help by chilling the raindrops over Earl's head, and succeeded only in giving him a hat of small, tinkling hail. Earl endured the whole parade — the bough, the chicken, the hail hat — with perfect dignity, finished his walk at the usual fence post, and shook himself like a great wet dog all over Jethro. Mabel (a wood elf) watched from the porch and said it was the finest roof she had ever seen walk.

Printed with pride in Payson, in the shadow of the Rim · Set in hot metal by Dude, Bard of the Morning Scroll · May your Turdas be free of sabre cats, Clay.
