OVERHEARD LAST NIGHT

A traveler asked the barkeep whether the big elk with the grand antlers accepts tribute. The barkeep only shrugged: "Aye — but he takes red apples only, and he remembers who shorted him."

AROUND THE HOLDS · THE WEEK AHEAD

Parade Season Rides Into the Holds

Payson, Ariz.

Parade season rides down the Holds' main streets this weekend.

PAYSON — Hail, travelers of the early light: the pines wear their autumn gold this Tuesday morning, and the sun holds the whole Hold to itself before the week's pagantry begins. Saturday brings the 70th Fort Verde Days parade marching down Camp Verde, the Beeline Cruise-In rumbles through Payson with three decades of polished chrome, and Sedona's 35th Arts Festival spreads paint and song across Red Rock country. Make the most of today's sunshine, friends of the Hearth — the clouds have words for us come Sunday.

QUESTS OF THE HEARTH

Quests awaiting:

- ☐ Print the torch sconces — Print two torches plus the socket test piece, and test-fit the bulb and socket before committing to the finishing work. (Due Oct. 3 — the Hearth’s lights are behind schedule!)
- ☐ Finish & install the torches — Paint faux wrought iron or wood, seal against the sun, and wire the sockets with the breaker OFF. (Due Sat., Oct. 10)

The torches must be finished and installed by Saturday, Oct. 10 — the Hearth’s walls grow brighter by the weekend.

The Hearth’s torch sconces take shape on the workbench.

MERCHANT OF THE HOLD

Chasin A Dream Outfitters · Star Valley

The bow rack at Chasin A Dream, tuned by friendly hands.

A full-service archery pro shop and guide service out on AZ-260 in Star Valley — bow tuning and setup, hunting gear and apparel, indoor shooting lanes, firearms and ammunition, and guided hunts in the Rim country. The archers of Skyrim knew a bow is only as true as the hands that tend it; these are hands the locals trust. Whether you're sighting in for elk season or just need a bow restrung, this is the shop the Hold swears by.

"Never had such good and helpful service from a pro shop before!" — a Google review

Why the Hearth sends you: As the Valley Dwellers trade the lowland heat for Rim Country air, the Hearth sends its guests here to gear up proper — friendly hands, honest advice, and the best greeting crew in the Hold.

TALES FROM THE TREELINE

THE PIE-PAN CHIMES OF MOGOLLON'S HEARTH

Jethro's pie-pan chimes ring clear over the Hearth's deck.

That dang ol' Jethro was at it again Monday morning, convinced the Hearth's front door lacked a proper greeting. Spying Gus's (the orc baker) dented copper pie pans cooling by the tavern kitchen, he tied them in a row from the carved tavern sign with twine, grinning like the whole thing was a fine idea.

It wasn't. The breeze coming off the pines struck up a racket like a marching band falling down a staircase, and Earl (the elk) planted himself under the sign with his great antlers tilted back, suffering in silence the way only Earl can.

Then Flurry (a young ice-breathing dragon) — perched on the signpost to watch the chaos — let out a tremendous sneeze, and a fine ice-mist glazed every pan. The next gust struck the frosted pans and they rang out clear and sweet as temple bells.

Mabel (the wood elf) came out of her herb garden fully prepared to be furious, stood there a long moment, and finally sighed. "Well," she said, "they're no worse than the warbler."

By sundown every guest crossing the deck was giving the pans a tap on the way past. Jethro beamed. Somebody had to tell him: the Hearth already had its bells all along.
